while he felt satisfied he could prove to any court or jury that the charges made against him were not true, the case would have more or less effect upon his candidacy. At his earnest request the hearing was postponed until November 16.

Mr. Bean was arrested last Friday on a complaint sworn to by Mrs. Almira Lewis, charging subornation of perjury. It is alleged that Mr. Bean paid her several hundred dollars to get her to refuse to testify in the case of Albert McBride, who is charged with criminal relations with Mrs. Lewis daughter. When the McBride case was called at the last term of court, at the last minute Mrs. Lewis notified the prosecution in the case that she would not testify. She was openly charged with having been tampered with, and to her attorney confessed that she had been promised money if she would refuse to give evidence in the case. She told when and where the delivery of the money was to be made. The City Marshal and a private chitzen were detailed to be present when the transaction took place and saw the money paid over and heard the words accompanying. Mr. Bean's arrest followed.

Mr. Bean does not deny of attempt to hide the fact that he paid over money to Mrs. Lewis, but he stoutly maintains that it was for the purpose of effecting a compromise of a suit for damages which Mrs. Lewis was intending to bring against Mc-Bride.

The affair has stirred up considerable.

Lewis was intending to bring against McBride.

The affair has stirred up considerable mass in the Republican party of the county. Mr. Bean is the candidate on the ticket for County Attorney. After the expose first became known the county central committee met and adopted a resolution requesting Mr. Bean to withdraw from the ticket. After a few days Mr.
Bean sent in his resignation, but a day or two later forwarded another communication demanding the return of his letter of withdrawal. This was refused by the chairman and another meeting of the committee was held last Friday.

Mr. Bean absolutely refused to withdraw from the ticket and the committee reaching the conclusion that it had not the power to remove him, adopted another resolution discisliming any responsibility for his election.

Bean publishes a card to the public in which he asserts that the central committee has received all his assessments for campaign purposes, and he will hold the committee responsible for its support of him.

BORAH READ THE POEM.

Charles Mostyn Owen Quotes Fable of the Ass in the Lion's Skin.

BOISE, Ida., Nov. I, 1994.-Chas. M. wen, Salt Lake City, Utah:-Sir:-Yours f the 27th reached me here today. I observe that the contents of your letter consists of a poem. I am glad you have found time in your busy life of a sleuth to read poetry. I trust very sincerely that you will continue your reformation and indulge in a few poetic strains occasionally. Very respectfully.

W. E. BORAH
R.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 4—Mr. W. E. Borah, Boise City, Ida.—Sir.—Your favor of November 1, 194, signed by "R." received. I thank you for your kind wishes for my continued reformation, and to that end I am not only reading easy poetry, but am also indulging my literary tastes with a few lines of simple prose, of which I hand you a sample by the late Mr. Acsop, for your personal use. "The Ass in the Lion's Skin."

An Ass having put on the Lion's skin, roamed about in the forest, and amused himself by frightening all the foolish animals he met in his wanderings. At last, meeting a Fox, he tried to frighten him also, but the Fox no sooner heard the sound of his voice than he exclaimed. "I might possibly have been frightened myself, if I had not heard your bray."

It is commendable, it seems to me, for its extreme brevity and simplicity, and also for its aptness under existing conditions. Very respectfully.

Not the Free Delivery Man.

Special to The Tribune.

CIRCLEVILLE, Utah, Nev. 4.—Through a misunderstanding, a special from here yesterday stated that First Counsellor M.

M. Steele, who delivered a political sermon here Sunday, is a special agent of the rural free delivery. This is an error. The special agent has the same initials as the first counsellor, but he is not a relative of the churchman. He is an active Republican and a competent official, but he has not taken up the ecclesiantical part of the campaign in the manner reported.

CUTLER LOSES HIS SPEECH

Smootized Candidate in a Bad Box.

Document Written by Fussy Jimmy Disappears From Pocket.

Manuscript Found by Sheepherder. Who, Reading It, Is Driven Insane.

Special to The Tribune

CIRCLEVILLE, Utah, Nov. 4 .- John C for Governor, became involved in very scribus trouble last week. He has been ten for him for delivery at the several meetings which he attends, and had a

This was not Mr. Cutler's first speech At least four have been written for him during this campaign, but the others have become so timeworn that they were laid aside. The one he was to deliver at Junction was practically new. He had in no same committed it. He was starring with Col. George B. Squires.

Manuscript Disappears.

Manuscript Disappears.

When Brother Cutler appeared before his audience at Junction he began as follows: "Brothers and sisters, I am very pleased indeed to afford you this opportunity of hearing me this evening." He then dived into his inside pocket for his manuscript. The look of consternation that stole over his classic features gave the audience a distinct pain. He filled in the pause with another salutation. Ladies and gentlemen." said he, and he lived into his side pocket; but the speech was not there. Dug Up Nothing.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said he again, as he dived into his pistol pocket for the clusive manuscript; but he dug up nothing Things were getting interesting for that audience but not so much so as it was embarrassing for Apostle Smoot's protege. His eye swept the table in search for that speech, but the table surrendered it not. Mr. Cutter's face had thanged into cleven different shapes in thirteen seconds by the watch.

Introduces Col. Squires. "Ladies and gentlemen," he began again, satisfied that he would be unable to proceed without his speech, "it affords me great pleasure to introduce to you Col. Richard Squires, who is the principal orator of the evening." Col. Squires did himself proud and very quickly dissipated the embarrassment of his traveling companion by launching into a ripsnorting defense of President Roosevelt's administration. But this is not the whole of this story.

Found by Herder. Found by Herder.

It is a mighty rough country down in the neighborhood of Junction and Candidate Catler had lost the speech in a trip from Panguitch that afternoon. It was found by a sheepherder. The following day several of the citizens of Junction saw a lone shepherd pacing back and forward on the mountain side, holding before his confused eyes a manuscript. From which he was attempting to draw such information as would comfort his troubled mind. He was watched intently by a number of citizens for an hour or more, when some one concluded to approach him to see what had so thorch him to see what had so thor-osorbed him. Manuscript Drives Him Insanc.

The sheepherder folded the manuscript to his bosom and rushed down the mountain side. He was pursued, overtaken and found to be in a demented condition. The manscript was not recognized by any of the persons of Panguitch who examined it, but those who did examine it were convinced that it was a part of the paraphernalla of the Smootler campaign committee, and it was turned over to H. N. Tanner, an embryo statesman from Proto who has been practicing on the people of southern Utah for several evenings.

Taken to Asylum.

Taken to Asylum.

Vesterday's Denver & Rio Grande train hore from Fanguitch the demented sheep-herder and he is now occupying a ward in the State Mental hospital at Provo.

This may sound like a fairy story concerted for the purpose of adding color to the incident of the loss of John C. Cutler's manuscript, but it is substantiated by one of Utah's most reliable citizens. It is also true that so far as is known, the sheepherder showed no signs of aberration until he perchance stumbled on the lost manuscript.

McGurin Affected.

McGurrin Affected.

Noung Tanner of Frovo took the manuscript to Parowan and read it as his own. He was campaigning with F T McGurrin and said to Mr. McGurrin that it was his purpose to deliver the same specch at Cedar City, their next appointment. Here McGurrin balked. Tanner had tried so hard to commit the language, had read the Cutier speech soften in the hearing of his companion that Mr. McGurrin stated that he was then approaching the dividing line between sanity and insantly himself. He refused to go with Tanner any farther unless he deferred using that Cutier decument.

Tanner Burning Sage Brush.

Tanner Burning Sage Brush.

Tanner, according to the story, de-clined to give it up and struck out on hie own hook. At last reports he was burning the sage brush of Iron county with an extemporary delivery of the now much abused speech.

Had to Wait on Fussy.

John C Cutler is reported to have been compelled to cancel two engagements until he could go to Sait Lake City to procuse 'Fusey Jimmy' to write him another speech. It is this that accounts for the report that he was ill a few evenings ago.
